PRESIDENT TO SEND MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

President: Won't Appear in Person, but Will Broadcast Later.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt will send his annual message to Congress at noon today, but he will not appear in person to deliver it in the Capitol.

President Roosevelt arranged a late afternoon conference today with cabinet members and leaders—Vice President Wallace, Speaker Rayburn, Majority Leader Barkley and Minority Leader McNamara.

The President's second annual message will be the first since he took office with them the business session, which will be held with a pair of legislative sessions and a number of executive issues.

President Roosevelt is expected to shake off vestiges of illness today as influenza—Mr. Roosevelt is keeping all his cabinet members in the White House today. Presidential Secretary E. A. Tamm said his physician, Dr. Ross T. McIntire, told the Chief Executive this morning and asked him not to go to Congress in person tomorrow and run the risk of a possible recurrence of his illness.

Message to be Read
Consequently, the annual message to Congress will be read by the President's son, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., at noon tomorrow and read to the legislative body.

At 3 p. m. eastern war time, Mr. Roosevelt will broadcast a resume of the message into a half hour program.

The annual budget estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1945, will be submitted to Congress Thursday noon. Mr. Roosevelt has followed a practice of sending over the budget in advance of the session, but this year he has postponed the budget seminar to Friday.

White House officials said that Mr. Roosevelt previously had sent his annual message instead of delivering it in person, tomorrow is the first time he has arranged to broadcast it later than the usual time.

The message is expected to deal with a major degree with domestic issues, and Mr. Roosevelt's decision to send it in the air underlines the importance the assignment.

Early had nothing to say on the subject of the message. Asked to report the President would not be in the national service legislative session.

He had been commented on in the House, and I do not like to say more.

Harding Area Wins
National Boy Scout
Membership Award

Recognition of the Walter E. Harding area in recognition of its achievement during the year 1943 in the Harding area.

The Boy Scouts was awarded by Hugh P. Hay, executive.

The award is given to councils which show extraordinary achievement in membership, and is being given to about a dozen councils in the United States.

The membership goal of 1,100 was reached by 158 enrollments.

During the year 1943, 203 new boys, boys nine years of age, nine new leaders and 10 Cub packs were added to the area, which includes Crawford, Morrow and other counties.

Spangler Says Mackinac
Statement Only Official Party Stand.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The Mackinac declaration is "the only concrete and comprehensive statement on American foreign policy by leaders of any party," Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of the Republican national committee said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to a conference of national committeemen and state chairmen, Spangler asserted the Mackinac declaration, which stated that the United States must assume its full responsibility in world affairs and cooperate with other nations in securing world peace, "is today the only concrete and comprehensive statement of American foreign policy formulated by the leaders of any party."

"This declaration," he made possible the adoption of the non-partisan Connally resolution. We see its influence in the terms arranged by Secretary Hull at the Moscow conference.

"To this time, the present administration has not offered to the people any such declaration," he said.

Challenges Sloan
Spangler sharply challenged President Roosevelt's attempt to label Democrats as the "win the war" party, contending "today this country is Republican rather than Democratic. But 'win the war' is a slogan that belongs to all of us."

"The term New Deal is now an embarrassment. Some other catch-phrase is to be devised," he said.

It is too late. Catch-phrases will not delude a people who see mismanagement in time of war. The term New Deal will not die. It will live on as a description of the kind of government the people of this country will not again tolerate."

The chairman's formal assessment of the political situation followed by less than 24 hours his disclosure at a press conference of public works for a one-year term ending Jan. 1, 1945.

Nazi News Reports Say Ciano
Given Death Sentence in Trial

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Jan. 10.—A German news agency broadcast announced tonight that Count Galeazzo Ciano, son-in-law of Benito Mussolini and Italy's foreign minister when the country was led into war at the side of Germany, had been sentenced to death at a Nazi-sponsored "treason trial."

The announcement by DNB said all 19 members of the Fascist grand council who voted July 29 for the deposing of Mussolini from his dictatorship had been condemned to death.

The single exception of Ciano's son, Galeazzo Ciano, former minister of corporations.

Only six of the 19 defendants, including Ciano, were in Nazi-Fascist custody, however, the other 13 having escaped the clutches of the Germans and Mussolini, according to German radio reports.

A two-day trial preceded sentencing of the pleasure-loving Ciano, a comparatively obscure aristocrat in the Italian diplomatic service until he met Eda Ciano, daughter of the dictator.

Previously, on Dec. 8, he had been reported executed—shot in the back by a firing squad. The report proved erroneous, but last Friday Berlin broadcasts announced he and five others would go on trial the next day at Verona, accused of treason to Mussolini and Italy, for having voted

BANS SERVICE
BY LAWMAKERS

President Rules Members of Congress Can't Serve in Armed Forces.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—President Roosevelt instructed the secretaries of War and Navy today that members of Congress "may not serve in the active components of the armed services."

Mr. Roosevelt said in a formal statement that Attorney General Biddle had advised him the constitution forbids a simultaneous service in the armed forces and in Congress.

"Aside from the constitutional barrier," the President said, "there is also the problem of evaluation of service to the nation. One of the greatest strengths of our democracy in the time of crisis is a strong, virile congress, to meet the problems arising from the demands of total war."

"The election of these congressmen after war was declared, showed that their constituents believed that their service as legislators was their paramount contribution to the war effort."

Mr. Roosevelt said the desire of legislators to serve their country under arms was understandable and appreciated, and "does them honor."

Final Settlement
Presidential Secretary Stephen Early said that in issuing his instructions to Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary of Navy Knox the President was closing out a matter that had been dragging along for some time. A number of members of congress have gone into uniform, although some have given up their seats to do so.

The text of the President's statement on legislators-soldiers:

"The secretaries of War and Navy have been instructed that duly elected members of congress, such, may not serve in the active components of the armed services."

"The desire of the national legislators to serve their country under arms is understandable and appreciated—and does them honor. However, I am advised by the attorney general that the Constitution of the United States forbids them from serving both in the armed forces and in the congress at the same time."

Question of Service
"Aside from the constitutional barrier, there is also the problem of evaluation of service to the nation. One of the greatest strengths of our democracy in the time of crisis is a strong, virile congress, to meet the problems arising from the demands of total war. The election of these congressmen after war was declared, showed that their constituents believed that their service as legislators was their paramount contribution to the war effort."

Apparently only two representatives were immediately affected by the President's order.

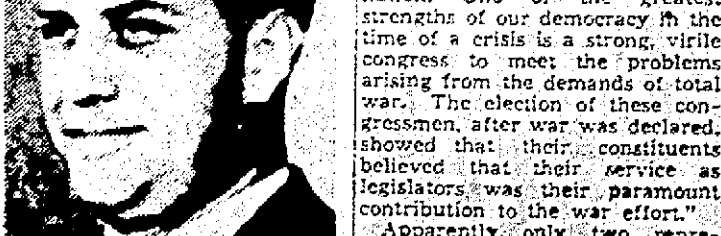

Rep. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) recently volunteered and now is on furlough with orders to report to Camp Shelby, Miss., Jan. 19.

Gore, a younger member of Tennessee's delegation is 36, married and has one child.

"All I can do is what I am ordered," Gore said.

The other member is Representative Jackson (D-Wash.) a private in a tank destroyer unit stationed at Fort McChesney, Ala.

JAPS RALLYING

AND LAND FIGHT

Enemy Strengthens Garrisons
Defending Southwest Pacific Island Bases.

By The Associated Press
Reports from allied headquarters today indicated that the Japanese have rallied their forces, and apparently don't intend giving up strategic territory in the southwest Pacific without a stubborn fight.

Contrasting with the comparative ease in establishing the original beachheads, American troops encountered stiffened enemy lines at both invasion points on New Britain. And an upsurge of Japanese resistance slowed the Australian advance up the north coast of New Guinea.

In the air, too, the Japanese threw in heavy interception forces, but allied fliers more than held their own in fierce sky battles.

These developments provided timely emphasis for the words of Col. Warren J. Clear, army general staff expert on Japan, who told a Pacific coast war conference at Los Angeles that Japan's army is stronger than ever and that, despite heavy losses, it has more planes than at the outbreak of the war.

Gen. MacArthur's week-end communiqués told of a Marine drive inland from Borja Bay east of Cape Gloucester, New Britain, in the face of Japanese machinegun fire, and then disclosed the leather-stripped and reorganized to resume their attack.

The Americans reached hill gun, artillery observation point one and three-quarters miles south of Sillim point. Allied planes lashed at enemy forward positions.

Activity on the Arava peninsula on the southwest coast of New Britain was confined to patrol skirmishes and an aerial assault which wiped out one Japanese-held village. But it became known that Umingah village and the unserviceable Arava airstrip, captured by American troops soon after they landed Dec. 15, had been regained by the enemy in a four-mile advance toward the coast.

Westward from Cape Gloucester, the Japanese put up opposition after (Turn to PACIFIC, Page 11)

EXPRESS CO. NAMED TO COLLECT FATS

Service Provided for Merchants by OPA.

Merchants receiving salvaged fats will be able to dispose of them now since the OPA authorized the Railway Express Co. to collect them and send them to a rendering station. Local express officials said today they had received the order on Nov. 17 but had received no calls from merchants to date. The minimum collection will be 18 pounds of salvaged fats in leak-proof containers. Shipping costs will be paid by the renderer.

Dealers have been instructed to give two brown points and four cents for each pound of fat turned in to them.

Eleven rendering companies in the Columbus district have been issued fat salvage ration which they are authorized to give to merchants for the fats they send to renderers.

Fifth Army Driving Deeper
Into Nazis' Cassino Defense

Americans Batter Way Through Strong Opposition To Capture 3,500-Foot Mountain Peak.

By The Associated Press
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGERIA, Jan. 10.—Fifth Army forces hit deeper today into the tough defense belt at Cassino with American doughboys plunging forward in a two-mile advance northeast of the stronghold and the British crossing the Peccia river and firmly holding a bridgehead southwest of the town.

In a thrust from Mount Maio the Yanks battered their way through strong opposition and captured the 3,500-foot peak of Corno Vecchio overlooking the road from fallen San Vittore to Cassino.

Despite intense artillery fire, the British clung to the bridgehead they forged across the Peccia west of Mount Maggiore near the western end of the 10-mile offensive front of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army.

Clark's troops also occupied other heights preparatory to an assault directly on Cassino itself.

Americans captured 1,500-foot Mount Chiala south of the Cassino road and still farther south completed occupation of 800-foot Mount Porchia by mopping up surviving Germans entrenched on the mountain's western slopes after tanks had entered actively into the push.

Four Miles from Cassino
The Americans thus overlooked the village of Cervaro, four miles due east of Cassino, from both north and south.

Their advanced elements were more than two-thirds through the six-mile zone of fortifications between Cassino and captured San Vittore.

The doughboys who captured Mount Chiala continued their advance northward toward Cervaro supported by fighter-bombers.

Deep snags on the Fifth Army front restricted fighting to patrol activity and heavy artillery and mortar fire exchanges.

The air command said heavy bombers had struck across the northern neck of the Adriatic to smash at the naval base of Pola, on the tip of Italy's Istrian peninsula in support of Yugoslav patriots, and field dispatches disclosed for the first time that the Portofinoes were flying from Italy.

Medium bombers attacked Ancona on Italy's east coast while fighter-bombers bombed and shot up trains and motor transport back of the battle line in the Aquila area.

One German plane was destroyed and one allied craft was reported missing.

American Spitfires, sweeping along the coast of southern France and northwest Italy, scored near misses on an enemy destroyer off Toulon Saturday and caused pieces of a small liner to fly into the air from two hits amidships during an attack off San Pietro.

Tabulations of allied Mediterranean operations during 1943 showed 1,000 ships were attacked, 250 of them sunk.

In the Fifth Army battle sector fighting was bitter.

Field guns arched their shells at the enemy in a virtually steady rumble and supporting aircraft swooped low, but only direct hits could penetrate solidly-placed Nazi defenses. Weight of the battle rested heavily on the shoulders of the infantrymen.

Dispatches from yesterday said the Germans had brought up strong reinforcements and had launched a series of vain counterattacks.

WITH THE AEF ON THE ITALIAN FRONT, Jan. 9.—(Delayed)—Pvt. Billy Miller, 21, a fast-talking doughboy from Peoria, Ill., hoodwinked a German lieutenant and 18 enlisted men into believing they were surrounded and then marched them single-handed to captivity across 600 yards of no man's land.

Pvt. Miller pulled off the exploit when he went into action for the first time Thursday night as his company attacked a hill in the San Vittore area. Surrounded by 50 Germans while he and a few comrades were bringing some wounded and a prisoner to the rear, Billy and his mates had to surrender.

A platoon of 19 Germans took charge of Billy. In a cave where they put up for the night, the Jerries started talking about taking him back to a prison camp. The lieutenant, who spoke English, told him what they were saying.

Billy Stuck Talking
"You'll never make it," said Billy. He knew he was at least a quarter of a mile in front of his own line, but he added, "We've got you surrounded. Listen!"

Gunfire, crackled outside echoing in the cave.

Next day the fighting was still terrific. The German platoon moved only a short distance, to a farmhouse behind the hill. They drank some wine and found some bread, but you could hardly stick a knife into it," Billy said later.

Next day, the German lieutenant insisted the time had come to try to contact other German outposts. Billy looked out the window.

On a distant hill he saw troops moving.

"I tell you we've got this place surrounded," he said. "Come outside and I'll show you."

They stepped outside and Billy pointed to the movement on the hill. The lieutenant talked to his men. A moment, then came back to Billy, unbuttoned his pistol belt

RUSSIANS NEAR NAZI RAILWAY
CONTROL POINT

Other Russians Closing Net
on Large German Force at Smela Gap.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Jan. 10.—The British radio said today that Russian units had reached Sarny, rail station 35 miles inside old Poland on the north-south rail link between the Warsaw-Odessa and Warsaw-Minsk lines. The German high command said Russian forces had attempted a landing west of Ochakov, Black sea port about 40 miles inside the southern anchor of the German line, but had been beaten off.

MOSCOW, Jan. 10.—Spearheads of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army plunged within 15 miles of the Bug river today, and nearer Vinnytsa, rail city on the Bug serving as main communication point for German communications to the Dnieper bend.

Other Vatutin units sent deeper one jaw of a possible trap for thousands of Germans in the Smela gap, a Nazi-held zone in the rear extending eastward to the Dnieper river. This southward drive was pushing toward a junction with Gen. Ivan S. Konev's second Ukrainian army, advancing westward above Kirovograd.

Further north, the Soviets were within five miles of Sarny (35 miles inside old Poland).

Vatutin's western advance guards seized Zhorntshche, 15 miles from a bend of the Bug river, 30 miles southeast of Vinnytsa and 33 miles from Odessa-Warsaw railway.

(The Bug river, the eastern border of Transylvania, the Soviet area, warded Rumania by the Germans.)

Rail Line Threatened
Other units pushed through Sarny, 19 miles east of Vinnytsa, threatening to cut the most important east-west railway left the Germans in the Ukraine.

The German high command announced the Soviets attempted a landing west of Ochakov on the Black Sea, between the Dnieper's mouth and the naval base of Odessa, but were thrown back. There was no Russian confirmation of the reported landing, which might be a flanking assault to bottle up the Germans in the Dnieper bend.

Berlin reported "local fighting" west of Sarny in old Poland, and declared Russian attacks west of Heidichy had been frustrated. The Soviets were beaten back in the Kirovograd area, the communication added.

Capture of Sarny would force the Germans to rely for north-south communications on railways meeting at Brest-Litovsk, 120 miles farther west. The Odessa-Warsaw railway, on which the Russians were advancing to the main escape line for German troops in southern Russia.

(Stockholm dispatches describing the German retreat as "almost chaotic," quoted Berlin military spokesmen as admitting their armies were fleeing during a desperate battle upon which "the outcome of the whole war depends.")

Trap Closing Tighter
The Germans also faced disaster west of the Dnieper river as the first and second Ukrainian armies narrowed the jaws of a possible trap to less than 75 miles.

On their entire front yesterday, the armies of Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev, swept up 110 more towns and hamlets, killed 2,200 Germans in two actions alone, and captured "huge stores of war material," a Soviet communiqué announced.

The Russians took Polonnoe, just inside Kamens Podolsk province, bordering Rumania, in an advance of 30 miles west of Zhitomir.

The first army's western drive, which was reported making the most progress, took some of Gen. Vatutin's forces through Buki, while other units mopped up the west bank of the Dnieper south of Kiev, capturing Kogaryk, 12 miles southwest of Zhitomir.

Konev's second army encountered stiff resistance around Kirovograd, but occupation of Alexandrovka, 35 miles to the north, helped straighten the front.

A communiqué said that in an unspecified sector of the second Ukrainian front, the Germans launched several counterattacks, but "having mangled the Germans and bled them while, Soviet troops by the end of the day again passed to the offensive and advanced successfully."

(Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers said the German high command's plans for a methodical retreat went awry when the Red army struck suddenly and swiftly in numerous sectors.

A President's Lady

It is a fact that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is the most widely known woman in America. Her name is known to every man, woman and child in the United States. She is the wife of the President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt. She is a woman of great ability and great character. She is a woman who has made a name for herself in her own right. She is a woman who has been a great help to her husband in his work. She is a woman who has been a great help to the people of the United States. She is a woman who has been a great help to the world. She is a woman who has been a great help to the human race. She is a woman who has been a great help to the world. She is a woman who has been a great help to the human race.

Government by Law and by Men

ATTENTION seemingly out of proportion to the importance of the actual incident is being given the what-should-be-administered by Justice Black, with Justice Murphy concurring, in that symbolic torch bearer for New Dealism, Justice Frankfurter. If it be true—and it is—that political policy reflects the ground previously gone over by the theorists, the incident may be a good deal about coming events.

In substance, Justice Black has taken Justice Frankfurter to task for mixing up law and his own opinions in reaching judicial decisions. This is, of course, the very essence of the issue between proponents of government strictly by law and of government by interpretation; i. e., men. Justice Frankfurter, both before and after his elevation to the supreme court, has been credited with many of the legal stratagems and devices which gave the Roosevelt administration authority which never was granted by any congressional intent.

This has been throughout the nation's history one of the most difficult concepts to establish among the people—that they were subject only to law, that administrators and courts were empowered to administer nothing but law and that they, themselves, had no authority other than that borrowed by law. Most difficult of all to deal with has been the misconception that the supreme court could administer objective justice; the court's function is to work entirely with the law, even if in its opinion the law is wrong. The fact New Deal appointees to the court can fall out over the principle is solid testimony to the fact that something really does happen to men who ascend to the court. Certainly Justice Black was not expected to be among the chancellors of the principles of the New Deal system of making the laws justify its ends.

No Barn Burners

RENEWED agitation for a national service act in the wake of the latest strike flurry follows the formula of action and reaction which has characterized discussion of this deeply controversial proposal. After each wave of youth stoppages, proponents of national service legislation grow vocal, and the result of their agitation is another period of inactivity.

Before the United States experimented with anything as drastic as universal conscription, its native common sense would demand preliminary measures to clear up the causes of responsibility and bad discipline among those who would be chiefly affected by such a law. It would "up a penalty, instead of a premium, on those who do not do their duty. It would be to make Uncle Sam's aim to get what they want. It would rest on government saying what it means, instead of kidding the public into believing it was coming to do one thing and doing another by doing something else. It would demand that the Business, Veterans and War Labor boards who can go so far and no further, either be given authority to do what they are professing to be able to do or get out. It would not give it approval, making it a law, to any proposal for turning down the arm to receive the business and horses.

In fact, this might be just as good a time as any to have universal conscription to a new generation of congresses. Those who think they might be able to pull it through without doing a lot of housecleaning first might as well have their eyes opened now.

So They Say—

The challenge and opportunity to business in 1934 will be greater than it has ever been in its American history—Henry H. Heiman, official National Association of Credit Men.

Today we march with a lightened burden, as many of us have nothing more to lose—Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

When marriage is brought about through a motivation but love, it is only one of the parties married for a selfish reason, disaster is certain to occur—Judge Arthur H. Day of Cleveland.

Checkup Indicates Roosevelt Criticism at New H. g. but He May Be Re-elected.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The checkup on the Roosevelt administration in the House of Representatives today indicated that the President's record in the past year was not as good as he would like to have it be. The House committee on the Roosevelt administration today held a hearing on the President's record in the past year. The committee heard testimony from a number of witnesses, including the President's own representatives. The committee's report will be made public in the near future.

JANUARY is rich in good fiction, for such odd reason, and for me the best novel so far is Charles G. Norris' "Flint." It is the first serious novel I have read in a great many months which actually tries to be fair to both labor and capital.

The difficulty of writing a novel in which the underlying theme is the labor struggle could hardly be exaggerated. A writer is damned if he does, and equally damned if he does not. Without question, the novelist's dilemma will be annulled by Mr. Norris' clear presentation of labor's side of the racket, labor will feel some of it, that is, it is unfair to make the Rutherford family human and their problems so logical and interesting. In between there is the burning public without at burning contacts, and these are, I think, believe in Mr. Norris' ability to understand his purpose.

It is not to be known that if the two parties continue to fight each other, they will reach a compromise. It is not to be known that if the two parties continue to fight each other, they will reach a compromise.

People who say that while Dewey has many friends, Dewey is not a primary 2 to 1. The Dewey decision area is therefore limited in its opposition to Dewey. It is not a primary 2 to 1.

The Dewey strategy is to convince the nation is already in the bag and this idea is being spread by the people into the Republican national committee meeting at Chicago. The committee will decide on the next Tuesday, the 22nd of January, the 1934 national convention are for him, but other supporters have pointed out that 30 to 35, the New York situation (which is not the Dewey case) has been a disaster to the Dewey campaign.

Polks Confusing
But press and magazine polls confirm the current standing of political powers still further. Henry Luce's Fortune magazine (Wilkie supporter) is currently giving a poll indicating Roosevelt would get 55 per cent of the vote of the war in 1934, 30 per cent if only over in Europe, giving the "New Republic" (unnamed) an astounding minority of only 32 per cent, with 12 per cent of the people in the don't know class.

The conclusion is contested by the Gallup poll. Mr. Gallup (unattached) gives Dewey leadership with 36 per cent (up 1 per cent since September), Wilkie 25 per cent (off 4), MacArthur 15 (unchanged), Barker 10 (up 2), Starnes 6 (unchanged), and Taft 5 (unchanged).

Polks are worthless except for unsentimental purposes at this unsettled stage of the race, but obviously one of these two is at least 100 per cent wrong at this time.

A New Language in Two Hours

by Howard Fieger

ROBERT L. OWEN, former senator from Oklahoma, has now a Washington lawyer, has worked 25 years on a global alphabet and says it's finally ready—for 1944!

He believes he can make English the international tongue and abolish illiteracy almost overnight, using nothing but a series of looping curves and geometric angles.

His global alphabet doesn't represent the English you are reading now, in fact, the idea can't be illustrated in conventional type like this.

The new alphabet deals entirely with sounds, substituting 16 consonants and 15 vowels for the conventional letters learned in school. The vowels are loops and squiggles to catch all the shades of full mouth tones. Angles and lines represent consonants, made with lip and tongue sounds. With the Owen alphabet you can put together a word that looks like a bunch of bananas, but the idea is that if everybody in the world had the alphabet to refer to he could pronounce the word at a glance.

"The possibilities of this mechanism are almost beyond the powers of human conception," says Mr. Owen, putting it mildly.

Owen modestly denies himself credit for the alphabet—he says he finished a job others started—but one task of getting his idea down on paper must have been tremendous. Owen is blind. He formed his strange alphabet by visualizing a square and fixing the location of the different characters in his mind. There he explained to a secretary who put the symbols in type from Owen's descriptions.

The former senator has dedicated his international script to President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and the children of all races. In a few days he intends to get 40 children together in Washington to prove that anybody can master the alphabet in two hours and learn to write his phonetic English fluently in a day.

"Russia has abolished illiteracy and taught its people immediately to write and read their own language in more than 200 dialects," Owen said. "By substituting phonetic spelling for classical spelling they have increased industrial production 400 per cent."

He is positive his system will do the same thing on a worldwide basis. Using English as a root, Basic English won't work, he says, because it sticks to classic spelling, "and the average child needs 10 years to learn to spell that way."

"With the global alphabet illiteracy can be abolished from the world," Owen says. "When we abolish illiteracy we banish ignorance and the end of poverty in all civilizations."

The signless former senator started toying with an international alphabet a generation ago. But it was the shock of Pearl Harbor that started his intensive work to set a medium for international understanding. His first hope is to create an alphabet to make the task of learning English a snap-of-the-fingers job.

"But the greatest objective," he says, "is to promote human brotherhood through mutual understanding and to give an immediate means of achieving it and establishing the good neighbor plan of the world hemisphere as a world plan."

The federal government has been helping to finance land-grant colleges since 1890.

Smoothies Who Sell Us $4 on the Air Have a Better Buy Than Old-Fashioned Pickles.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HAD a short contest the other evening with the moderns and I must admit I heard that the moderns were making a better buy than old-fashioned pickles.

The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns. The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns.

The range of commerce was not as wide as the old days. The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns.

The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns. The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns.

IT WAS a fine corn cure, too. It is a predictable about of sometimes removing the toe with the corn. It is a predictable about of sometimes removing the toe with the corn.

One of the moderns pickles is the moderns pickles. They serve the purpose for the moderns. The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns.

The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns. The moderns pickles are the new commercial product. They serve the purpose for the moderns.

But I concede that the moderns might get into their methods something of the suppressed excitement and the hushed mystery of the old boys ("come closer men") who save you the impression they were about to divulge a valuable secret. They did not merely serve their words as a dull ritual, as do many of the modern pickmen. They made you think they were going to enter a tremendous world on you.

THE namby-pamby intention of some of the moderns is all wrong. They should inject some real enthusiasm into their pitches, or sales talks. There is a certain type of radio pickman who makes you positively loathe his product, and that is bad for business. I never remember the old time "hurry-hurry-hurry" pickman whose excitement was always the obvious, spontaneous to put me, but I did like the low, confidential guy who seemed to believe what he was saying, and the style the modern pickmen could emulate.

The best adaptation of the old time technique, I think, is found among the modern pickmen of the radio programs that specialize of giving away cash prizes. They borrowed from Seapy Smith, who sold a few bars and threw them into the germ, sales pot, giving the purchaser the chance of drawing one of them. Just a chance. Other old time pickmen then took to "throwing in" divers and sundry articles as an added inducement to the purchase of their leading offering, whatever it might be.

The majority of the radio news commentators manage to inject the element of excitement into their work, but they are not pickmen per se. They are more the performers who follow the pickmen. The big air shows are but an elaboration of the old time method shows that toured the land promoting sales, and I think the air shows are better, only I wish they would give us more Indians.

Civilian Diary

By Truman Twill

When the time comes to write the history of this war there will be books about everything but civilians.

Monday: Got up and went to work. Had peanut butter sandwiches and hot coffee for lunch. She forgot to put in sugar, but remembered to put in a pack of gum. Had to wait 20 minutes for a bus. Income tax blank came today, but I was too tired to look at it. It felt like a touch of hell. Read the paper. Noticed the news broadcast and went to bed. Didn't sleep well.

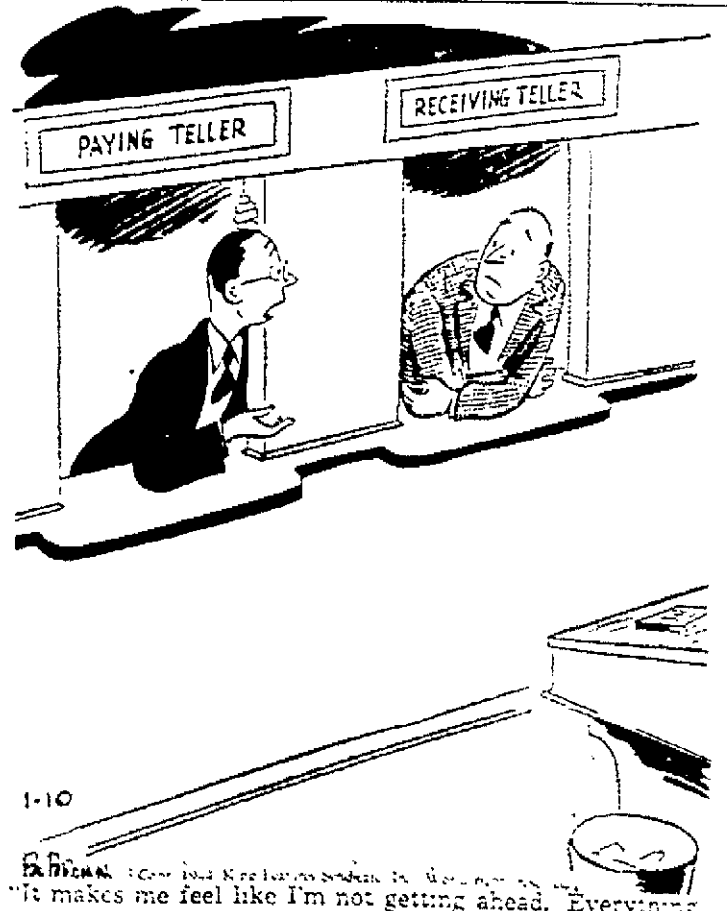

Tuesday: Flu worse. Had pain in stomach. Reminded her to put in sugar, but she left the pickle. Had a bad day and tore off a finger nail. Got a ride home and looked at income tax blank before supper. Hair and gown, and decided to go to movies. Wife frantic because I can't find any new underwear for children. Today was not good. Went to bed early.

Wednesday: Would have stayed home today but it was pay day. No news from Eddie, but that is not unusual. Had jelly sandwiches instead of peanut butter. Also two packs of gum. No worse, no better. Looked over tax blanks after supper, but didn't do them. Spent evening fixing washing machine. Refrigerator doesn't sound any too healthy. Went to bed with headache. Pay check came up by "de ducks." Fellow at the snap service ducks take what they want and we get a rest.

Thursday: We down with flu. Got ready for school. Packed own lunch and the pickles. Had cold meat sandwiches. Went over and had to fix supper for wife and children. News today is good, but there is a lot of trouble here at home. Hot water went on the blink and must try to get a plumber tomorrow. Still no news from Eddie, but no news is good news. Wife feeling bad.

Friday: Got up late this morning. Don't have time to fix lunch. Wife no better. Tried plumber but none to be had till next week. Will have to try to fix heater myself. Early and called doctor to come and see me. Cooked supper myself and it was not a success. Discovered heater too much for me. We have to get plumber somehow. Doctor came and said wife must stay in bed for three or four days. Children beginning to sneeze.

Saturday: More overtime today. Still miserable. Discovered flat tire on car. No news from Eddie. Tomorrow is Sunday. Will find time to work on income tax. Doing marketing tonight. Read book on Pacific. Don't see how we can survive this. Snaps, but sometimes I wish we were in the world. Tomorrow must clean up and rest up for another big week. Wish Eddie would answer letters his mother writes, but he won't or we'd hear about it. Well, next week or other week.

"It makes me feel like I'm not getting ahead. Everything going out and nothing coming in!"

Just a piece of cloth

That's all it is—just a piece of cloth.

You can count the threads in it and it's no different from any other piece of cloth.

But then a little breeze comes along, and it stirs and sort of comes to life and flutters and snaps in the wind, all red and white and blue.

And then you realize that no other piece of cloth could be like it.

It has your whole life wrapped up in it. The meals you're going to eat. The time you're going to spend with your wife. The kind of things your boy will learn at school. Those strange and wonderful thoughts you get, inside a church, on Sunday.

Those stars in it—they make you feel just as free as the stars in the wide, deep night. And those stripes—they're bars of blood to any dictator who'd try to change it.

Just a piece of cloth, that's all it is—until you put your soul into it, and all that your soul stands for and wants and aspires to be.

Get that straight—it's just a piece of cloth. It doesn't mean a thing that you don't make it mean.

What do you want to make it mean? A symbol of liberty and decency and fair-dealing for everyone?

Then snap out of it. The enemy's been getting closer every day. Don't let him get any closer. Start driving him back now.

Now?

There aren't enough ships yet. Aren't enough cannon, tanks, planes.

How are we going to get them? Make them, of course.

But how are we going to make them—force people, the way they do in Germany?

No, sir. We're going to pay our way. And you've got to help.

Got to help? No, you don't even have to give up your dough. All you have to do is lend it—at interest. Higher interest than you can get in almost any other way—in U. S. War Bonds.

Interest that make the Bond worth 1 1/3 again as much as you paid for it, in just ten years—just at the time you'll be wanting to take that vacation or buy that home in a world that's free and peaceful and swell to live in again.

Yes, that flag is just a piece of cloth until you breathe life into it. Until you make it stand for everything you believe in and want and refuse to live without.

Ashland and Bucyrus To Play for Top Place in N. C. O. Loop

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

Final bout of basketball involving Marion area teams this week will be the Ashland-Bucyrus affair, a game of Friday night's thundering collision of a class one-dayly top-toppers and the North Central Ohio conference's 1943-44 champion, the Bucyrus Redmen.

Even a top-and-trotter might not have been able to predict that there would be a N. C. O. team that would be able to beat the Ashland-Bucyrus team. The Redmen are in a mathematical tie with Ashland for number one in the N. C. O. loop. But the Hilltoppers are in a mathematical tie with Ashland for number one in the N. C. O. loop. But the Hilltoppers are in a mathematical tie with Ashland for number one in the N. C. O. loop.

Ashland has the league's top individual scorer, Ted Jacobs, with 12 points, and Guard Tuffy Harris, with 11. A. L. Pearson, center, has an edge in experience over the Redmen. They will have the factor in their half of playing on the own stamping grounds Friday night.

"My job is to beat the Redmen," said Tuffy Harris, "but I don't want to lose a chance."

But hold on a minute. You forget that some of those Bucyrus ball players are pretty tall, so tall in fact that they dwarfed Marion Harding to the extent that the Presidents lost out to the Redmen cagers of Crawford county. Yes, height still is a big factor in basketball, especially when it comes to Jack Shuck and Dan Benham, a couple of fighting forwards, who can job in points galore. Benham was the Bucyrus hot shot in early season non-league games, scoring almost at will. Shuck came into prominence against Marion with 13 points and then almost ripped Gallon apart single-handed Friday night with a 26 point collection, second only to Ted Jacobs' 27 point bag against Mt. Vernon.

Picture Is Confusing There you have both sides of an extremely confusing, tangled-up picture. Ashland is given a slight edge but Bucyrus has proved that it has the stuff that is needed to bowl over the big ones, like the Toppers.

Pressing the Ashland-Bucyrus game for the week's cage spotlight will be the Gallon-Marion and Mt. Vernon-Shelby contests.

Dewey Bohrer's Presidents, successful in lineup-juggling against Shelby Friday night, appear to be on the comeback path, at least enough to beat Bob Sheffer's Gallon Orangemen. Gallon just wasn't in Bucyrus' class Friday night and out, 55 to 38, while the Redmen rode over Shelby, 43 to 31. If the revamped Chief Executive, instead Friday's performance, they should have league win No. 3 to their credit. Gallon is in fourth

Eight Major Loop Clubs Seek Ties in New Ohio League

Germany's Propaganda Losing Punch in Neutral Countries As Allies Gain

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Germany's propaganda campaign in neutral countries is losing its punch as the Allies gain ground in the Pacific and the Atlantic.

The volume of German propaganda has increased heavily since the attack on Pearl Harbor, but it is being countered by the Allies in a more effective manner than ever before.
